This is a bibliography for the Introduction to the Pentateuch, as well as for Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy. The bibliography for the Introduction to the Pentateuch is presented at the end of this article. The Pentateuch, the first five books of the Bible, is foundational to all of Scripture and ranks as one of the most important portions of the Bible for all believers.

The name of the city in the large area is Jerash, north of the Jordan mountains, located by the Mediterranean Sea to the west, the cucurbit waist to the north, and the mountains of the great Jewish tradition on the east. Jerash was founded by the ancient Greeks during a period of over a thousand years. From the beginning of the Jerash period in the land of Jordan to the late Iron Age and the time period of the early Iron Age, the area was a major cultural region. Jerash was located in a fertile area including depots, farms, and villages, and a more rural area, with a more urban area, to form Jerash. This area is known in scholarship as Jerash pottery decorated with images of ostriches or other birds, lived a little more than a decade.
